

Abstract

The present invention relates to a method for administering a corticosteroid to a posterior segment of an eye. In the method, a sustained release device is implanted to deliver the corticosteroid to the eye. The aqueous corticosteroid concentration remains 5 less than vitreous corticosteroid concentration during release of the corticosteroid from the device.